

TVBS-“Total Vacation Bible School”

These photos are all from TVBS at Crossline Community church where I served as a leader to children for a week. Six hours a day, I would go in and do different activities to engage the children in learning about the Lord. I became extremely passionate about doing this after the first time I served in 7th grade because I loved how eager the children were to learn. There excitement fueled me to learn as well as teach them more about the Lord. The Catholic social teaching this displays is “call to family, community, and participation” because I was serving my community through my leadership. I allowed and helped these children grow in the Lord, while inviting them to join the church as a community. I was participating in all the activities to bring excitement into his word.
